The following is the program that Buu Loc will follow in the event that he forms a new Vietnamese government:

- a. Keep the way open for negotiations with the Democratic Republic of Vietnam (DRV).
- b. Choose as members of his cabinet primarily individuals with no political affiliations. Many will be chosen from Vietnamese Paris representation, such as Nguyen Duc Khe, Vietnamese Deputy High Commissioner to France, and Nguyen Quoc Dinh, a lawyer.
- c. Adopt a strong attitude against members of the recent National Congress, and play off one national party against another.
- d. Raise regional governors to the rank of vice-presidents. Nguyen Huu Tri and Phan Van Giau would remain as Governors of North and Central Vietnam respectively. Tran Van Huu, former Premier, would be installed in South Vietnam. Nguyen De, head of Bao Dai's personal cabinet would be made "First" Vice-President.
